

Corporate Counter-Intelligence Measures and Corporate Security

In a growing pattern, Corporate America has been requesting consultative services for white-collar terrorism; media misconceptions, risk assessments, employee crisis management programs and specific need requests from corporate America. The events of September 11, 2001 exposed many vulnerabilities of present-day corporate America and gave birth to the need for thorough risk assessments, threat analysis, evaluations, and over-all preparedness and security enhancements. Team Hollywood, Inc. provides a ten point comprehensive Risk Assessment / Threat Analysis combined with a Employee Crisis Management Program that is unparallel in the industry.

Team Hollywood's Special Operations and Advisory Services utilizes overt & covert methods to shore up security breaches, to engage in crisis management, to propose counter-strategies once a crisis has occurred, to prescribe steps to minimize future breaches and to recommend steps to create working environments that are more inherently harmonious and less hospitable to hostile or counter-productive breaches arising in the first place. We operate on three primary fronts. We minimize damage once breaches occur. We root out problems before they erupt fully. We collaborate with key management to develop a preemptive strategy that sustains a corporate culture that is inhospitable to internal security breaches occurring.

Organized crime is one of the many threats to the modern economy. The organizations, structure and operations of these criminal fraternities make policing and investigations a costly and time consuming task. Most law enforcement agencies only look at serious cases, which will offer confirmed prosecution. Team Hollywood aims to ensure that all security measures undertaken are unobtrusive and kept to the required minimum, therefore maintaining a low profile and creating little disruption to the company.

Team Hollywood's Unique Methodology: Our methodology is born out of the deep understanding and profound appreciation within our managerial and operational ranks of corporate entities as complex cultural webs and the sum total of competing, often times conflicting forces, values, agendas, and loyalties; That, crossed with our staff's reputation for balancing such a sophisticated understanding of organizational dynamics with masterful people skills sets us apart and enables us to "blend into" the fabric of the organization, and for experiencing as opposed to simply observing. That's the "stemcell" approach to "personal research" to which we ascribe and which we have perfected over numerous assignments which yields for our corporate clients unexpected, critical and substantial insight and clarity into the situation quicker and more consistently than by relying on the more conventional approach.
